PERILS OF THE DEEP.

Rescue of the Sole Survivor of the Steamer Speke Hall.

In our cable dispatches of last June mention was made of the wreck of the Oriental steamer Speke Hall. The Ceylon Observer gives the following narrative of the only survivor of that ill fated steamer: "When I came to the surface after being washed off the bridge, I and Quartermaster Usher were clinging to the same life-buoy, and I saw the funnel of the Speke Hall just going under the water. Boats and everything had been smashed to pieces and washed away; and indeed, if the boats had been available, they would not have lived in such water. Catching a spar, I abandoned the life buoy to Usher. It was dark at the time and I could not see him, and I saw nothing more of him or anything else. At daylight I managed to secure another spar. I lashed the two spars together with my belt, crosswise, so that I was able to sit on the center. I could not have held on much longer to the single spar, because every now and then the spar would fall above me, and my head would go under water. When day light set in the sea and the wind had gone down and it came on to rain. I had a sou'wester on, luckily, and I held it up till I caught about a cupful of water. I believe that saved my life; for I had swallowed a good deal of salt water, and my mouth was parched. I saw nothing that day but pieces of wreck floating about. On the morning of the second day I saw the smoke of a steamer a long distance off. She passed on without seeing me. I saw one or two others during the day, but they were still too far off. About the middle of the second day a shark came rushing along at a great speed. It was not a very large one about nine feet long. I was sitting on the cross piece with my feet underneath. The shark rushed over one piece of wood, and I fancy he got the other end of the raft in his teeth, because he stopped suddenly. I had a piece of stick about three feet long which I picked up, thinking it might be useful for hoisting my cap on as a signal. I poked him with this stick and he cleared off at once, and I never saw any more of him. That night a steamer passed quite close to me. I could see all her lights, but, the night being dark, she did not observe me. I hailed her but she was too far off to hear me. I dozed off once or twice, but whenever I dozed I fell into the water. I didn't feel much inconvenience from the sun. My hat saved me. On the morning of the third day I saw a steamer and sail. I took my coat off and hoisted it on a stick and tried to attract her attention. She altered her course and came toward me, and I fancied she had seen me, but presently she altered her course, and steered away from me. I had almost given up hope then. Later in the same day another and much larger shark visited me, but did not come within the circle of the raft. He was a tremendous fellow, twenty feet long at least, and I gave myself up as lost when I saw him. Nothing more occurred until the evening. The sun began to get low, and I could not see anything all around the horizon, and I made up my mind for another night. I must have gone off into a longer doze than usual for I fell off the raft on my face, and when I got up again the French steamer Pekin seemed close on me, as if it had sprung out of the water. I had nothing to signal with, but my hat. I held it up as high as I could, and one of the soldiers on board saw me. A boat was lowered and an officer and four men came to me, and took me on board, where they treated me very kindly."

The Fast Young Man.

Most cities and large towns are cursed with a lot of useless young fellows who seem to have no object in living but to enjoy themselves. They are in most cases the sons of respectable and influential parents. They are known as "fast young men." They are drones in society. An investigation of the cause which make a respectable boy become a "fast young man" will show that there is something wrong in the system of training up the youth in this country. The want of that solid instruction which can be given at the fireside and in the daily acts of parents and guardians, that inculcates the duties each one owes, first to his Creator and next to his fellow-men, who, had he devoted his youth to some useful purpose, would be an ornament in society. The petted boy is in danger of developing into a fast young man. Having wants and every wish gratified, he soon loses his balance, associates with vicious companions, frequents the theater and gambling hell, and before manhood swears like a trooper and wallows in the mire of impurity. He looks down on his father as an "old fogy," and is not a little ashamed of his origin. Late hours, vicious companions and dissipation complete his character, and he is ready for any crime. The local columns of the daily press are constantly filled with the doings of fast young men. The evil example of this class is working unutterable injury to society.

Parents and those who have the care or guardianship of youth should never permit a "fast young man" to enter their house. We fear that parents too frequently forget the duties they owe their children. We would remind them that though the civil law does not take cognizance of de riction of duty in this respect there is a higher, holier law, before whose dread tribunal they will have to render a rigid account of the trust placed under their care.

Why He Suicided

John Howard, son of Gen. Howard, who shot himself in Yellowstone Park, is still alive, but with no chance of recovery. From a gentleman familiar with the details of the sad occurrence the following additional facts are learned: Young Howard had been in the park for some time with a surveying party under charge of Capt. Kingman, chief engineer of the department of the Platte, which Gen. Howard commands. Gen. Howard and party came into the park a short time ago and camped at the Fire Hole basin, where they were met by Capt. Kingman's party. With Gen. Howard's party was a young lady of Omaha, to whom young Howard had been engaged, but the engagement was broken off before he started on the survey. He renewed his suit without success. Then he shot himself.

Music Lessons

A young lady who has had the advantage of receiving instruction in music from Professor Oliver King, (Pianist to Princess Louise) is desirous of obtaining a limited number of music pupils, and will give lessons at her residence, or if desired at their own homes. For particulars enquire at M. W. Waitt's music store.

TO-DAY'S DESPATCHES.

The Cholera

Special to THE TIMES.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 3.—The situation here is now more hopeful. Only twelve deaths are reported in this city to-day. No deaths at Pinaro hospital and no case admitted; nine discharged, cured, and five remaining under treatment.

MADRID, Sept. 3.—Cholera has broken out at Cadiz. Official reports say that there were 45 new cases and 22 deaths in that city.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Nearly all the deaths registered at Toulon are from cholera. It is feared the period of incubation has not yet passed. Four deaths from cholera were reported at Toulon to-day. An exciting incident occurred at St. Chamas. A decree had been issued forbidding the holding of funeral services in the church over the bodies of cholera victims. In spite of this decree the relatives and friends of the girl who had died of cholera, forcibly carried the remains into the church previous to interment.

LIFE AT HUDSON'S BAY.

The Opinion Entertained of It by One Who Has Been There.

Life at Hudson's Bay, when one goes there merely as tourist and hunter, quite free from responsibilities beyond keeping comfortably alive, is not, if we may credit the story of a keen-eyed traveler, a special dream of realized delight. On the contrary, he adds, with rare simplicity of expression, there is quite enough to worry about. With a thermometer so deep in figures that to keep pace with the familiar numerals is impossible, it becomes an earnest question: How much can one poor body wear? How many pounds of rai[illegible] Fancy, if you can, how it feels to be burdened with triple encasements of heavy garments. A pair of deerskin trousers, three pairs of blanket socks, and over them blue cloth leggings drawn to the thighs; then a leather capote, fur-edged, flannel-lined and double-breasted. A belt of scarlet cord confines this dainty shield-all at the waist, and over this a huge shawl is securely fastened. A fur cap with ample ear lappets protects the head, out of which, if one is not discreet, the wood-burned nigs look forth like the sun on the edge of a fog bank. A pair of snow shoes five feet long under one arm, and a double-barreled fowling piece under the other, and the grand excursion of the day begins. Lucky, indeed, is the party meeting no impending tempests of hail, with a razor-like wind catching it, as it whirls along with remorseless energy. And happy they, when mountain-like gusts of snow do not swirl and swirl in their faces. In such cases the wraps upon wraps, seemingly able to withstand any amount of cold and sleet are in a moment only like mats the thinnest of gauze veils. The only alternative is to turn one's back to the fierce onslaught of the elements, and endeavor, though often vainly, to shield with great fur mittens the excruciating face agony. Under the guise of pleasure-seeking one often endures many privations. "To think twice, however," says our sage young friend, now well experienced in this art, "is far better."

GENERAL DESPATCHES.

The Cholera

Special to THE TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The Secretary of State has received a detailed report from Consul Mason, in regard to the cholera at Marseilles. He comments on the false policy of the authorities in endeavoring to suppress the truth as to the existence of the disease, and speaks of the sensation caused by the rude awakening of the 14th ultimo, when the community was shocked by an announcement that the epidemic prevailed in their midst. He says further that then the city realized that it was in the first stage of an epidemic of real Asiatic cholera, which had not been imported from Spain or elsewhere. The most elementary principles of sanitary cleanliness are unknown in Marseilles, gutters flow with the vilest filth, canals and sewers are infected. On the western side of the old port is one old building which contains 700 inhabitants, whose excrescences are thrown in recesses of the stairways. Behind the Mairie is a school for young girls, which is poisoned by exhalations from the vaults of neighboring closets and aired only by windows opening upon a dark closed court, which is a veritable sink. From the 1st to the 19th of August there were 921 deaths, an average of 83 per day. The disease has also appeared seriously in the suburbs of the city. The malady has been relatively more fatal than last year to sailors of vessels in port, and has been particularly serious with seamen from Scandinavia. The disease manifests its characteristic preference for the dissipated, insane and unclean. The present situation, and the record of past second epidemics, indicate that the scourge has perhaps reached its maximum fatality, and will gradually subside to a finish in October or November.

Latest Chinese Advices

Special to THE TIMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—The City of Pekin arrived this afternoon with Hongkong dates of Aug. 8, and Yokohama 18th. Owing to the accounts of cholera in Japan it was feared that the steamer might have cholera on board, but fortunately such was not the case. Hongkong advices state that the Russians who acted as purchasers for the Chinese Merchants Steam Navigation Co.'s vessels during the Franco-Chinese war, will receive one hundred thousand taels for their services.

Pekin advices state that the Princess Kunniu has been converted to Christianity.

Northern Pacific Rumors.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 2.—Much discussion is caused in local railway circles by a report that there is a scheme on foot in New York to form a combination between the Northern Pacific and the Rock Island, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Omaha road, somewhat on the order of the old tripartite agreement between the Union Pacific and its eastern connections at Omaha. In local offices of the Northern Pacific decided opposition is expressed to any combination on the ground that it will force the road to carry all the east bound freight through to St. Paul, and also make it necessary to go to Chicargo to fight for west bound traffic.

"Among other rumors current yesterday regarding the Northern Pacific was one of big finds of anthracite coal along the line of the road. Investigation partly gave corroboration to the rumor. Large finds of anthracite coal have been made, but unfortunately the mines are located where the company cannot get access to them, without a great outlay of money. The mines are located in the Cowlitz pass of the Cascades, and they are inaccessible to the company because it is next to an impossibility to run a line from the Pacific division into the heart of the mountains where the coal is located.

The Bartholdi Statue.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—General Stone's report of expenditures on the Bartholdi pedestal is still severely criticised. A Post writer says: "According to Stone's report the work has cost about $60,000 more than ought to have been the case. The admitted cost so far, adding the money which must be paid to the contractors when the pedestal is finished, has been $273,964. Gen. Stone's salary for two years and four months is $14,000, which is to be added. The executive committee has received about $290,000, so that the completion of the pedestal proper will find the committee about $10,000 in debt, with the important costly work of putting up the statue before them."

Want the Irish Language Restored.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Dublin special: The lord lieutenant received a deputation, with an address, from the Gaelic union society, which hopes to restore the Irish language. He assured them of his conviction of the importance of the study of the Irish dialect, not only from a philological point of view, but because of the mental superiority conferred by its lingual power. The Countess of Carnarvon was present, and delighted the deputation by addressing them in a few sentences of pure Irish.

The Great Achievements of the Tabor and Horse Traction Engine.

OSHAWA, Sept. 2.—On Monday the Joseph Hall Machine Works received their new Wood, Tabor & Morse traction engine at Oshawa station when it was put to its first test by hauling to the town, over ten tons of freight on a dirty road, with only 40 pounds of steam up, at a good speed. Yesterday the engine was put through a series of severe tests, among which may be mentioned the placing the four road wheels at one time in holes 18 inches deep, and when steam was put on the engine came out quite easily. As a test, scantling was placed before each wheel, which was easily surmounted, backward and forward. It hauled easily three new model threshers, three ordinary 12 h-p engines and tender. Orders have already been received for this engine from British Columbia and Manitoba, and while its first and great demand will be for threshing machine men to move their separators without horses, lumbermen and others engaged in heavy teaming must buy this engine, which will revolutionize road teaming, ploughing, and other heavy work. The Jos. Hall Machine Works have secured the Canadian right for this machine, which is considered about the most perfect and valuable traction engine ever invented.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

HON. THOS. WHITE, Minister of the Interior, has been elected in Cardwell by a large majority.

THE Council of the county of Terrebonne, represented in the Commons by the HON. MR. CHAPLEAU, has voted $200 in aid of RIEL.

HIS GRACE ARCHBISHOP TACHE has just celebrated his fortieth anniversary at St. Boniface, the name of the R. C. mission across the Red river from Winnipeg.

THE Dominion government have appointed Colonels JACKSON, WHITEHEAD and FORREST, of Winnipeg, as commissioners to enquire into and report upon unsettled claims on the Militia Department on account of the recent rebellion in the Northwest.

A CAMP meeting of Northern Methodists, colored, in Rutherford county, N. C., was fired into, and several members wounded, by an armed body of Zion Methodists, Thursday. The invaders then gathered up the effects of the routed party and made a bonfire. Christians love one another

N. Y. Tribune: While some visionary cranks in Paris are trying to formulate a "universal language," it is of interest to notice that in number nearly one-half and in circulation about two-thirds of the newspapers in the world are published in English, and the proportion is increasing every year. The "universal language" is here already, and in good working order.

THERE are seven million acres in the five sporting countries of Scotland—Inverness, Argyle, Ross and Cromarty, Sutherland and Perth—over which grouse hunters and deer stalkers are allowed to roam at pleasure. The entire area of Scotland is less than twenty million acres. Thus more than one-half of Scotland is devoted to the pleasure of the wealthy, while the poor peasantry have to betake themselves to other lands or starve at home. Is it surprising that the Skye crofters propose emigrating in a body to our northwest?

THE formation of the property contiguous to Niagara Falls into a public park is about accomplished. The Canadian commission recently met and concluded its final arrangements. There is every reason to believe that the park will extend from the Ferry road, near the new suspension bridge, up to the burning spring, a distance of about two miles, and back to the brow of the bluff, including Clark hill, the Cedar Islands, and the museum park and buildings. The acreage will greatly exceed that of the American reservation, while the cost is not expected to reach more than half. The abolishing of road tolls and solicitations from hackmen, hawkers, etc., which have been a great annoyance to visitors and sight seers will be one of the principal objects gained, while the full view of both the falls and the rapids will be uninterrupted. Should the report receive the approval of the government the commission will then commence the work of valuation of the property, and place the result of their labors before the Ontario legislature at its next session. It is the prevailing supposition that the Canadian reservation will be opened free to the public on July 1, 1886.

TORONTO Telegram: "The disparity between the amounts allowed to officers and privates wounded in the rebellion is so marked as to produce adverse criticism from many quarters. Evidently the calculations have been made upon the plan in vogue in England. Our government has simply adopted the English system. But it ought to have been borne in mind that the volunteers are not regular soldiers. They are not paid for fighting. They are not maintained at the public expense in time of peace. Nor are there the same social grades in Canada as prevail in the old country. In Canada there is very little difference, if any, between the social position of the officers and the men. All are alike citizens, and all were alike ready to take up arms at the call of duty. Therefore there should not have been such a marked difference in the pensions allowed, either to the wounded or to the survivors of those who fell, leaving others dependent on them. So few pensions will have to be paid that the government could well have afforded—seeing that it gave Gen. MIDDLETON twenty thousand dollars in hard cash—to deal more liberally with the men."

WHAT THEY ARE QUARRELLING ABOUT.

Recent events have given the Caroline Islands a prominence that warrants some description of them. They form a widely scattered archipelago in the Pacific, to the east of the Phillipines and north of New Guinea. The Spaniards lay claim to the whole of them. They are divided into the Western, Central and Eastern Carolines.

The Western, or Pellew Islands, have a total area of 346 square miles, and are nearly circled by a coral reef. The surface of the principal islands in this group is frequently well wooded and the soil is fertile; and bread-fruit, cocoa-nuts, sugar cane, arums, oranges and bannnas are grown in abundance. Cattle, sheep and pigs have been introduced and do well; there is a great variety of birds, and the lagoons abound in turtle and fish. The inhabitants are a dark, copper-colored race, and bear evident traces of Malay and Papuan blood. Not only the separate islands, but even the villages form independent but co-operative republics. The most peculiar institution is the "clobbergoll," a kind of corporation for purposes of mutual aid and defence. The women have clobbergolls of their own, and possess a considerable share of political influence. The Bellewese still used stone implements and weapons at the close of the last century, but produced a variety of artistic articles with their limited means. They have five kinds of recognized currency in the islands, consisting of pieces of beads of ancient glass and enamel, to which they ascribe a divine origin. The population has for some time been rapidly decreasing, and at present the whole group contains only about 10,000 inhabitants.

The Central Carolines, or Carolines proper, consist of between four and five hundred islands, in forty-eight groups. Omitting the three principal islands the area is barely twenty square miles, but with them it is 360 square miles. The Matelotas group lies at the northeast of the Pellews, and consists of three islands inhabitated by a few people from Yap, which lies further to the northeast, is about ten miles in length and has an excellent harbor. The natives of Yap are at a higher level of civilization than most of their neighbors; they cultivate the betel nut with great care, build first-rate boats, lay out their villages regularly, pave their streets, and construct piers and wharves. The islands of the Ulea group are of little importance; but the Rug group is composed of five large and about forty smaller islands, and contains 35,000 inhabitants, who are divided up into two distinct races a black and a red which are often at war with each other. The Mortlock group consists of three atolls called respectively Satoan, Etar and Lukunor. The natives, who number about 3400, are of Samoan origin, and are the only worshippers of regular idols in the archipelago. To the northeast lies Raven islands inhabited by immigrants from Puynipet, greatly mingled with foreign blood. Puynipet, also called Ascension by the French, along with the two low atolls of Andema and Pappenmo, constitute the group called the Seniavine. The population is now about 2000 having suffered severe reduction from small-pox. There is a small colony of whites in Puynipet, and the island has been the seat of an American mission since 1851. This island is the chief rendezvous for the whalers in that part of the Pacific. There is a remarkable mass of ruins in the center of the island, which seemed to have belonged to an extensive fortification. STRONG'S island which occupies a central position in the Carolines proper, is a volcanic island with an area of about thirty square miles, and a population of about 1800. There is an American mission here also.

The Eastern Carolines are otherwise known as the Mulgrave archipelago, and comprise the MARSHALL and GILBERT groups. The total population is estimated at 100,000.

THE DEATH PENALTY.

The sentimentalists who hold to the belief that capital punishment is a relic of barbarism, which the advancing civilization of the nineteenth century should no longer tolerate, will not derive much encouragement from the experience of the State of Minnesota. Like several other States of the Union, Minnesota some years ago set out on the experimental line in the matter of capital punishment. During the first few years of its history as a State, and for some time previously while a Territory, the death penalty was inflicted for murder in the first degree. Under the influence of a contagious sentiment, the legislature of 1868 repealed the old law, and enacted a compromise substitute, which left the jury to designate the manner of punishment. This was practical abolition of the death penalty, since few juries are ready to take the direct responsibility for taking life, and in aggravated cases a criminal could always escape the extreme penalty by pleading guilty, thus preventing his case from going to the jury. This statute was in effect for fifteen years. The reaction of public opinion in this regard finally influenced the legislature of 1883 to restore the death penalty in a modified form, placing the power of life and death with the court instead of the jury. This didn't work well either, in the few cases that came under it, and the revised penal code of 1885 restores the old rule that conviction of murder in the first degree carries the punishment of death with it. This restoration is an instructive illustration of the change of public sentiment in the United States upon this subject within the last twenty years. Probably we shall hear no more of the abolition of capital punishment until at least a generation of time has obliterated the memory of the experience of the State without it.

IN A SANDSTORM.

CARNIVAL OF THE WILD ELEMENTS OF THE SOUDAN.

The Perturbation It Carried to the Tent of a Newspaper Correspondent—Genii of Arab Folk-Lore—Destructive Sand Billows.

[Dongola Cor. London News.]

Dongola was visited the other day by a sandstorm—to my idea the most dreadful of storms. Was there ever such a one before? Millions, I suppose; but I never experienced one so bad. I must really use the penny-a-liner's very convenient expression, "it baffles all description," and for that reason I shall describe it. Our respected friend, the penny-a-liner, I observe, after stating that a thing baffles description, invariably tries to describe it. Why, then, should not I? Midday, everything sweltering and seething in the sun that happens to be exposed to it; everybody bubbling—positively bubbling—with perspiration, who happens to be in the shade; thermometer looks as if it would burst—I am afraid to say how high the mercury has risen—in fact, the perspiration pours so into my eyes that I can not see the small figures. Rock and sand pain the eye by their glare. A black dense, mud-colored cloud suddenly appears on the horizon at the south, at first a speck, then growing larger and larger, rolling rapidly toward us, now in the distance, now nearer and nearer. Down go tents and up in the air go straw huts and shades, while the palm branches wave and nod like the plumes of a hearse caught in a gale, or of the helmet of a knight at a mad gallop.

On, on, it rolls, that grimy fast-riding cloud. Now I can not see twenty yards ahead of me. The landscape is suddenly enveloped in a black shroud. It bursts upon my hovel. Away, away, away go my half-answered home letters. Who shall catch them? "Go, run after them; quickly, quickly, boy." I am enveloped in sand. Over goes my only globe lamp—crash! My bottle of seven days' allowance of lime-juice—it totters and capsizes. Down come the spiders, and away bolt the rats—whom I encourage to run about and eat the scorpions, centipedes, and white ants. In comes a flock of little crimson-headed bats, and tumble exhausted. I have no doors or windows to be blown in, and there is no fear of a shower of broken glass, such as I have seen during a sirocco on the shores of the Levant. Books, sketches, writing paper, manuscript, linen, lie scattered on the floor, I was going to say—no, the earth—we have no floors here in Ethiopia—buried in a moment in black dust, and over goes my only bottle of cognac, kept for medical purposes. Luckily the cork was in. But the only bottle of whisky an Irish friend had been at; he had left the cork out; it was light, not much balance left, and over it went. An aroma of mountain dew pervades the room. Bisullah! It was to have accompanied me across the desert to Wady Halfa, where some say Cambyses lost his army, though others near Merce.

I put my head out of my window was I going to write?—I mean a square hole in one of the four mud walls forming what is called by courtesy a house. I was blinded as quickly as any inhabitant of the cities of the plain was by the hand of the angel. My eyes were instantly filled with sand, every molecule of which was a burning spark and every particle a scintillation. It wearied me to find my way to my washing stand; I mean my pile of old wooden cases, on which was carefully balanced my basin—an old biscuit tin, with a classically shaped amphora in it. Finding it at length I cleanse my eyes, smarting with the fiery dust, and put on a pair of huge green goggles—all glass; these are the only kind that keep out the sand.

Thus armed, I looked forth into the moving mountain of sand. A burning blast, like unto the breath of a fiery furnace, scorches my face, dries up my skin, stopping every pore. I look unto the heavens. The sun was a blood-red ball of fire, floating "all in a hot and copper sky;" while along the horizon hung a lurid light, such as one sees on the ocean before a storm. In the distance trees, huts and tents were invisible, but near one could just make out the winding, lead-colored Nile, lashed into billows. A dense cloud, which enveloped all, seemed raining fire. The atmosphere is of seething, boiling, sputtering. And now waltzing, whirling along the banks come the "devils" (shaytanat, as the Arabs call them, the sand spouts—aerial giants—each indulging in a pas seul, their huge, fantastic figures rearing their heads from earth to heaven. One is reminded of the djin of the "Arabian Nights" let out of the casket in which King Solomon had sealed him up, and rising as a tall column of smoke. How grim and gruesome are they! No doubt the fanciful ghoul, afreet, and genii of Arab folk-lore drew their origin from such as these.

And a destructive element are these rolling, spiral sand billows—powerful agents of disintegration, having a grinding, roughing action on rocks and stone—as they ride the whirlwind, accelerating destruction in a country replete with decaying pedigrees of decay—a country where all changes are not of life, but of destruction—where the characteristics of the scenery around are heaps of rocks breaking into fragments. And these gusts of sand penetrate everywhere, into clefts and fissures of stones, eating into and sapping their foundations, and acting with mechanical strength, lifting and rolling rock over rock.

There is a weird and ghastly dance all around, in a dull and lurid glare. Now I am enveloped in a heaving mountain of sand; the air is gritting, my mouth is parched, speech is impossible without wetting the lips, the tongue is swollen. I never before properly understood "the darkness of the Egyptian plague," which "could be felt." Half an hour—the sand tornado has swept by. I can hear the rush of scared horses, mules, donkeys, and cattle, as they rush madly by, having broken loose; the tremendous guttural roar and grunting of camels, the howling of dogs, and the shrill screeching of vultures and kites flying before the gale. All nature groans. Half an hour—the Dongola carnival of the wild elements of the Soudan is over.

THE TRADE IN WILD FLOWERS.

Brief Chat with the Proprietor of a Street Flower-Stand.

[Chicago Tribune.]

"We started here about eighteen months ago," said the flowerman in answer to the reporter's question, "and at first bought our flowers like every one else. Sometimes we got them pretty fresh, but often they were half withered before they were put on the stand. It didn't pay very well, and we were going to quit, when I thought of a new plan which has worked splendidly, and we are making good money right along. We take it in turns to go into the country to the districts where wild flowers are plentiful. We found out the spots where they are at their best, generally from fifteen to thirty miles from the city. Whoever turn it is takes three baskets, and after reaching his destination looks around to find where the best can be got. He then picks a basketful and sends it up by the night train and the other opens store with them next morning. He gets another basketful at daybreak next day, which generally gets here about 10 or 11 o'clock. He then fills the last basket and comes back with it. In this way we have fresh flowers all day long. We have got together quite a nice lot of customers whom we supply at their houses once or twice a day. We have a one-horse wagon at work all the time in addition to what we sell here."

"Do you have to pay anything to the owners of the fields where you get your stock?"

"They charge us from 50 cents to $1.50 a day for the privilege. Some few won't accept any payment at all."

"You don't buy any of your flowers now?"

"We haven't bought any since April. The early supplies we will always have to buy, as nothing is in full bloom here until May is well on. About the first week in April the trade in wild flowers opens. The first ones sell at the highest price. People are anxious to get them, as none have been seen for months. At this time we get early lilacs and yellow daffodils from the south. We sell a large quantity of these flowers at from 15 to 25 cents a bunch in April. The trailing arbutus then comes from Wisconsin. After that our own native flowers become plentiful."

"Which flowers are the most in demand?"

"Every kind sells well when they first come in. But the prime favorites are daisies, water lilies, pansies, and daffodils. There is a steady run on them as long as we can get them. The amount of work varies greatly with the species in bloom. It takes two or three times as long to gather the same amount of different kinds. It is no child's play at any time, as we make it a rule to gather only the best. We have sometimes to go over a large extent of ground before our work is finished. The danger is not very great. We sometimes have to run from a bull in an ugly temper. The worst time is the water-lily season. We have to go to the swamps to get these, and reaching for extra-fine specimens has cost me a ducking many a time. Taking it altogether it is a pleasant life, as we are in the pure country air every other day, and, as you may see, we have no need to go to a seaside resort to get tanned."

Risk in Safe Deposit Vaults.

[Cor. Brooklyn Eagle.]

Private vaults in the stock exchange building are rented to members. One of the tenants mistakenly opened somebody else's safe, and only became aware of the blunder when he began to handle securities which he did not recognize as his own. Then he reported to the officials in charge, the occurrence was hushed up so successfully that it did not get published at the time, and additional precautionary measures were taken to guard the receptacles of wealth. Nevertheless the subject of risk in safe deposit vaults has been a general topic in Wall street. Of course a good portion of the deposits consist of papers which would not be valuable to thieves, but the aggregate of negotiable securities, actual money and such portabilities as jewelry and plate is so great that nobody undertakes to estimate it.

The president of one establishment guesses that his vaults contain $3,000,000 in stuff that plunderers could use. The guardianship seems perfect as against ordinary burglars and sneak thieves. The lessees of safes must bring evidence of identity every time they wish to enter, and must be able to repeat their individual passwords to the proper official. Then they must open a lock in each of two gateways, the combination being divulged only to tenants. The rules and devices vary somewhat in the different places, but substantially they amount to the sure exclusion of marauding interlopers. Fire and force are practically impotent too.

But the managers are compelled to admit that a conspiracy among the employes might result in the complete cleaning out of any safe deposit trough did in town. All it does that can be in this manner. The humblest porter's antecedents are carefully examined before appointment, and his conduct afterward is a rotin ay by means of spies. This rule is applied to the more important officers. Recent thefts by well reputed ten tives of treasure, however, have demonstrated that real character is not discoverable until events divulge it, and there is a genuine agitation over the apparently unavoidable risk, even in the ventually impregnable vaults. Three to six persons could conspire for the biggest burglary in the history of crime.

An Old Relief in India.

[Calcutta Cor. London Times.]

A remarkable instance of the tenacity of old beliefs among an ignorant class lately occurred not very far from Calcutta. The idea that government always inaugurated every good work with human sacrifice was long current among the lower orders of the Indian people, but it might be supposed that it had died out long ago. It appears, however, to be as strong as ever. The boatmen on the Ganges, near Rajmehal, somehow came to believe that the government required 100,000 human heads as the foundation for a great bridge, and that government officers were going about the river in search of heads. A hunting party, consisting of four Europeans, happening to pass in a boat, were set upon by the 120 boatmen, with the cry "Culia Katia," or catchboats, and only escaped with their lives after the greatest difficulty. The men were arrested, and thirty-one of them sentenced to terms of from one to three months' imprisonment.

So Much for Wagnerism.

[Munich Letter.]

The king of Bavaria has ceased to be the lovable man that he once was. He has developed into an enormous, cruel and half-crazy glutton. He shuns his capital; he has no regard or affection for his subjects; he turns night into day, and he cares naught for family ties, social etiquette, or kingly demeanor. The crown heads of Europe, going officially to pay a through Bavaria, pass Munich for fear of expulse to his rule to sojourn. The nobility keep away from town; all the hotels are losing money, and without speedy remedy Munich will soon be ruined and deserted. Such are the awful results of Wagnerism.

Car Coupling by Electricity.

[Exchange.]

A South Carolina genius claims to have invented a perfect system of car coupling by electricity. Upon a recent trial a freight train was cut in four places and again coupled up without the aid of any person except the conductor, who did the entire work from the rear car. The invention, if successfully introduced, will save many hundreds of lives annually.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

While the TIMES is always prepared to give publicity to the views of correspondents on any question of interest to the public, provided facts are given, couched in unobjectionable language, we wish it to be understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by the writers thereof.

Nor can we give room to duplicates of letters that have appeared in our contemporaries either in this city or elsewhere in the province. Correspondents, therefore, will save time and trouble in preparing such for THE TIMES, as they will be rejected.

Our space is valuable, and brevity, as far as possible, should be observed in writing on any topic, and on ONE SIDE of the sheet only.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Before purchasing Real Estate or insuring your life, see Rand Bros.

—Misses Hettie and Dora Young, of this city, are attending the Tacoma seminary.

—For the month of August, there were 22,477 tons of coal exported from Nanaimo.

—Steamer Yosemite is announced to leave at 7 o'clock this evening for Port Hammond and way ports.

—The Yosemite left Laidlaw's at 9 a. m. and will arrive about the hour THE TIMES goes to press.

—Earnest V. Bodwell, of New Westminster, and Henry Wood, of Okanagan, Esqs., have been gazetted notaries public for the province.

—A match of cricket will be played to-morrow at Beacon Hill, beginning at 10:30 a. m., between the Navy and Civilians.

—Sneak thieves are committing depredations in Nanaimo. Orchards are robbed, gardens denuded of vegetables, and cows are daily milked. The city constable is among the victims.

—A fire-proof vault door has been received by Mr. M. Bray, Government Agent at Nanaimo, from Taylor, of Toronto. A vault will be constructed in the provincial building.

—Rev. E. Robson, of the Nanaimo Council of the Royal Templars of Temperance, has been appointed representative of the Dominion Council in British Columbia.

—The bark Alden Besse sailed from the Tacoma docks Tuesday evening, lumber laden. She will stop at Victoria and take on a large number of Chinese passengers and thence proceed on her trip to Hongkong.

—An examination of South Cedar school took place on Monday in the presence of the trustees and Mr. Justice Crease. The children acquitted themselves in a manner highly complimentary to the faithfulness of the teacher Miss Lawrence.

—Letters for the following are held for postage: Mrs T A Anthony, Laramie City, Wy; Theo A Ward, Tacoma W T; Miss Dassa Ferry, Tacoma; J H Gray, C E, Chemainus; G A Hoyt, Alkali, Ogn; Mrs Thos Stratton, Port Angelos, W T; Harvey Gravely, Portland, Ogn; Miss S J Wilson, Nanaimo, B C.

—A Chinese wash-house is being opened out on Pandora street, next to the Blue Ribbon Hall. The City Council should take cognizance of the fact that these houses are becoming a little too promiscuously mixed up among the best residences and business establishments of the city. If we must have John, let us have him in his proper place.

—A paper to be called "The Alaskan" is to be published weekly at Sitka. The first number will appear in about a month. It will be printed by "The Alaskan Company," at $3 per annum, and will be devoted to the development of the resources of the territory. It will be the most northern journal on the continent.

—A few days ago THE TIMES made the suggestion that if the band of H. M. S. Triumph were occasionally to play on the esplanade it would be a favor that would be duly appreciated by our people. It is pleasing to know that this magnificent band will be on Beacon Hill next Saturday afternoon, during the cricket match, and will play between the hours of 3 and 5 p. m. All who can get out to the park at that time should be present.

—The committee of the fire department is in correspondence with the fire departments of several other cities of the same size as Victoria, for the purpose of acquiring information on the method pursued in the matter of recouping the members of fire companies for the time and expense involved in the discharge of their duties. When full information has been received on this head a scheme will be submitted for the approval of the Council.

—The George E. Starr brought freight for the following: A B Gray & Co, A M Herring, A McLean & Co, Blair & Co, Spencer, D S Curtis & Co, Marvin, Fell & Co, H, Young & Co, Saunders, Todd, Sears, Crawford, Homer & Son, Weiler, Hamilton, Langley & Co, Lenz, DeDonald Bros, Leonard, McQuade, Lettice, Pitts, Standard Oil Co, Turner, B & Co, F W Foster, Eickhoff, McNuly, Dunn, Shotbolt, Earle, Wentworth & Wood, Welch, R & Co, Denny, Lerache.

—The steamer Hope left for Alberni this morning. Mr. Halpenny, Government Guide, was among the passengers, and was accompanied by several prospective settlers. The Hope was loaded down to the water's edge with freight, consisting of such general merchandise as is essentially necessary in a new country. Alberni is now assuming such importance that it ought soon to be found profitable to keep a boat on the route, running at stated times, and with such frequency, as the requirements of the settlement demands. Such a service would compensate in a great degree for the inexcusable negligence of the authorities in the matter of road construction. Private enterprises may yet do for the Albernians what government has failed to accomplish.

He Went Back.

A Chinaman who bought a ticket in Portland for Victoria was landed in Seattle Monday evening, because he did not have $50 to pay for the privilege of landing at Victoria. The unfortunate fellow belongs to a company that is in bad odor with the Seattle Chinamen, and he was at once notified that he must leave town or he would be killed. The O. R. & N. Co carried him back to Tacoma free of charge. Our restriction act is evidently having an effect.

The Boscowitz Arrives.

The Barbara Boscowitz arrived at Nanaimo at six last evening. The weather was very foggy. She brings fifty passengers, mostly miners. The engineries have shut down, each having put up about 6000 cases. The Boscowitz heard at Bella Bella that the Ancon's passengers were enjoying themselves hunting and fishing. The Alexander was spoken off Comox on her way to the Ancon's assistance. The Boscowitz will arrive in Victoria to-night.

Contractors' Outfit.

A carload of heavy team horses and wagons for Messrs. Hugh MacDonald & Co., contractors, arrived Thursday from the East, by steamer Idaho. They are for the contractors own use in connection with their contracts and brickyard.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

The Annual Meeting—Secretary's Report—Election of Officers.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon, Mr. E. C. Baker, Secretary, read the annual report. It stated that the membership had increased during the year from 83 to 90, and that four deaths, viz., Messrs. Jeffree, Lovenue, Lowenberg, and McQuade, had occurred. No further correspondence on the question of amalgamating with the Dominion Board of Trade has taken place. Notwithstanding the remonstrance of the board, "nothing definite has so far been reached as to changing the name of the town of Vancouver, either by concession or coercion. Col. Holmes having recommended the establishment of the military barracks at Coal Harbor, a resolution was sent to Ottawa and the Minister of Militia promised that he would personally inspect the sites before a selection would be made. A large number of questions of a commercial character occupied the attention of the board during the year and were ably dealt with. The cash assets of the board amount to $1919.47, $1350 of which is invested at 8 per cent. The report was adopted.

Mr. Rithet was unanimously elected president, but declined to serve. Mr. J. H. Todd was then unanimously voted to the chair. Mr. M. T. Johnson declined re-election as vice-president. Mr. E. C. Baker, M. P., was unanimously elected, general regret being expressed that Mr. Baker's engagements prevented his consenting to act as secretary.

The following council were chosen: M. T. Johnson, T. Earle, J. H. Turner, R. P. Hesterman, A. A. Green, E. G. Prior, J. Davies and D. W. Higgins.

Messrs. R. Finlayson, W. C. Charles, T. Tye, J. Fell and the members of the council were appointed arbitrators.

PROSPECTING THE ISLANDS.

The World Will Yet be Astounded at Our Mineral Wealth.

Capt. Carroll, of the Ancon, left the steamer when opposite Queen Charlotte Islands, in a small boat manned by eight sailors. Capt. Carroll is interested, with a number of American capitalists, in prospecting for minerals on Queen Charlotte Islands and the north of Vancouver Island. He has been visiting three prospectors, who have been quietly at work for over 12 months. As the result of his visit he speaks in the most glowing terms of the mineral richness of Queen Charlotte and Vancouver Islands, and predicts that in a few short years the world will be astounded at the now latent wealth of that section. It is expected that a large amount of American capital will be shortly invested in developing our mineral resources.

Capt. Carroll reports very thick fog all the way down from Alert Bay. The small boat went through the Seymour Narrows with a strong and fair tide, and made two miles in ten minutes. The water was fairly boiling at the time, some of the whirling pools rising as high as eight feet. It was an exciting run and required skill and nerve to make it successfully, but Capt. Carroll was at the tiller.

The party landed at Englishman's river on Sunday and on Monday the captain mounted a horse of Hirst Brothers, and rode on to town.

DELAY OF THE ANCON.

Fuller Particulars Concerning the Accident to Her Machinery.

Through a gentleman who received a private dispatch from Mr. Haines, Tacoma, who is a passenger on board the Ancon, the News gathers the following particulars concerning the accident to the steamer Ancon: The steamer Ancon, on her return trip from Sitka to Victoria met with quite a serious accident some time last week. While coming down Safety Bay, in upper British Columbia, about 280 miles north of Nanaimo, she blew out the head of the cylinder and was compelled to stop her machinery and seek a harbor.

Real Estate Sales.

Several transfers of real estate have been made in the city during the last few days, and more inquirers for desirable properties are reported in both Victoria and at Coal Harbor. Among other sales spoken of a lot on the northeast corner of Johnson and Quadra streets is said to have changed hands at $3500. One of the Trimble lots on Yates street, between Blanchard and Quadra, has been purchased by Mr. Jones, of the Dominion Hotel, for $1400, while an adjoining one has changed hands at $1500. Prices of available building lots are firm, and holders are indifferent about selling. Victoria in that respect may be said to stand above among the cities of Canada.

The Wellington Encampment.

Last Friday evening Unity Encampment, No. 3, I. O. O. F., was duly organized at Wellington by Mr. Roberts, assisted by Mr. Jackson, of Victoria, and several brothers from Nanaimo. The following officers were duly installed: Robt. Scott, C P; Alex Clarkson, H P; Edward Hoskins, S W; Wm Shiert, J W; Benjamin Shearing, Scribe; Wm J Bailey, Treasurer; Geo Williams, I S; John Robinson, O S; Lewis Mounce, 1st W; John Ross, 2nd W; Duncan McArthur, 3rd W; Peter A Olson, 4th W; Robert Grant, G T; John Matthews, G T.

Painting the Town Red.

The Alma Stuart Stanley Co. will be here on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The press speak in flattering terms of the excellence of this combination, and the farcical comedy of "Paintin' the Town Red," is said to be irresistably amusing. Miss Stanley's specialty, impersonating the male character, never fails to please the audience. Among the other members of the troupe are Frank Clements, Harry Gates, Hattie Moore, Louis Edgar, Frank Blair and G. Wilkinson. The company will only appear two nights; reserved seats at Waitt's.

Nanaimo Customs.

The following are the returns of the Nanaimo custom house for the month ending Aug. 31st, 1885:

Import duty	$7,423 53
Sick Mariner's dues	48 54
Petroleum inspection	12 00
Total	$7,484 07

New Drug Store.

Messrs. Haughton & Baird, two enterprising young men, have opened a drug store at the corner of Quadra and View streets. Mr. Haughton is a surgeon dentist and will attend to all business in his line which may be entrusted to him. The trade of the citizens in their locality is solicited.

Filigree Jewelry.

We have examined some of this work at J. Dassonville & Co.'s, Fort street, and find it really remarkable how threads of silver so fine can be spun and made to form such beautiful styles of ornaments for the ladies. An early call will secure a choice selection.

For the New Church.

The ladies of the Methodist congregation are engaged in preparing a bazaar in aid of the new church and any assistance will be gratefully received by the following ladies: Mrs. D. Spencer, Mrs. Shakespeare, Mrs. Bertschbler and Mrs. G. Grant.

GERMANY AFTER CUBA.

Prince Bismarck said to Have Designs on the Big Island.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—An additional sensation was attracted to the Spanish-German difficulty by a rumor giving Prince Bismarck's reasons for the seizure of the Caroline Island. This rumor attributes to the chancellor a determination to obtain possession of Cuba, and explains his conduct in taking the Carolines as a ruse to secure an understanding between the United States and Germany regarding the outlying Spanish possessions, as a result of which Germany would permit the United States . to secure the Phillipine islands if the Washington government would consent to Germany's annexation of Cuba. It is strongly maintained in some quarters that Bismarck has for a long time had his eye on Cuba, and that he has assured himself of the support of certain Western American sugar interests in the scheme. Englishmen of moderate views scout the idea that the United States will even permit the German occupation of Cuba, and affect to perceive in this reported Bismarckian project a deeply designed intrigue to involve the United States in a European squabble. The story comes from Paris, where it is extensively discussed. The Spanish colony in the French capital are furiously indignant over the whole thing. The Tagblatt of Berlin, in referring to the matter to-day, remarks that the beautiful ladies of Cuba will soon be the lovely subjects of Emperor William. King Alfonso has been informed by telegraph of the reported Spanish occupation of Yap, the principal of the Caroline islands. He will return from San Ildefonso to Madrid on Monday to preside over the special meeting of the cabinet called to consider the Carolines affair.

MARINE NOTES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Arrived—Queen of the Pacific.

The bark Robert Kerr, Capt. Richardson, will be towed up to Hastings Mill to-day to load spars for England.

The government steamer, Sir James Douglas, is again in the water, after having been thoroughly overhauled. Her first work will be to repair the straits cable.

The steamer Barnard Castle, Capt. Smith, arrived from San Francisco on Saturday. Capt. Smith reports heavy fogs all the way from San Francisco to Departure Bay. It was that thick that he had to depend entirely on his compass and reckoning and when he got near Victoria the first land he made was Albert Head, which he took to be Trial Island, as he could not hear the fog whistle at Race Rocks. While the steamship was backing away from the land the fog whistle started "booming." Capt. Smith had come around the Race Rocks without hearing the whistle. It is stated, however, that a scarcity of fresh water was the reason that the whistle was not blowing continuously.—Free Press.

In respect to the recent violation of our pilotage laws, and the imposition of a fine of $50 on the person found guilty, the following explanation from a Port Townsend gentleman, who knows whereof he speaks, will be of interest. Writing to a gentleman in this city, he says: "The Legislature of Washington Territory, at its last session in 1883, repealed our pilot law, and there are no legally appointed pilots, except those who have a license from the late Board of Pilot Commissioners. Pilot licenses issued by the U. S. Steamboat Inspectors are only for steamers. These inspectors are not authorized by law to issue pilot licenses for persons to take charge of sailing vessels. The man McFarlane, who claims to be a pilot, never passed an examination of the Board of Pilot Commissioners, and is only acting as a private pilot for any one who sees fit to employ him. I understand he has a license from the Inspector of Hulls to pilot a tugboat in American waters, but he never has had a license to pilot sailing vessels. Steamboat licenses are only for one year, and expire if not renewed."

PERSONAL MENTION.

M. Lichenstein and W. H. Carre, San Francisco, are at the Driard.

Mrs. Ewan Ball, of Clinton, is in the city.

Mr. E. S. Vigor, steamboat inspector, returned from Kootenay yesterday.

The George E. Starr brought the following passengers: J Wallace, D Carson, B Atkins, Jno Stevens, M Hase, Mrs M Hase, Lukinstein, D Christ, S Young, D Glenn, Fisher, W Dickson, Miss Vaughn, Della Turner, H W Barnard, W H Cane, J Redmond, M Manuel, Williams, Woh Sue, Ah Tow.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Esq., S. M.)

Annie, a Fort Rupert woman, for being drunk, was fined $5 or one week.

Lizzie Wilson, for using insulting language and being drunk, was fined $5 or one week.

James Hayward, assault, dismissed.

Thos Clark, assault; bail estreated.

H. E. Crossdale, infraction of thistle by-law; charge withdrawn on payment of $2 costs.

Wet Goods for Farwell.

The Spokane Falls Review, referring to the flourishing condition of trade in that city, says that the opening up of a route to the Columbia river, and tapping the C. P. R., has created new fields for the wholesale trade. Of the firms reaping the benefits of this extended demand, the wholesale liquor house of The A. P. Hotaling company, under the supervision of Dell S. Lashier, takes the lead. Mr. Lashier has shipped thousands of gallons of liquors to various points in the northwest, this summer. The scene in front of the Hotaling salesroom, in Union block, was one that has become common by frequent repetition, but it would attract the immediate attention of the stranger. Eight enormous four-horse freighting wagons blockaded the street, every one of which was loaded far above the side-boards with barrels, kegs, boxes and bales, all coming from the Hotaling establishment. The shipment represented 16,000 pounds of wet goods, and they were consigned to parties at Farwell.

A Street Vault.

Messrs. Goldie & McCullough, for whom Mr. G. Robertson is agent in this city, are constructing a new steel burglar-proof treasury vault for the Bank of Montreal, Toronto. It is furnished with double and outside doors with the latest improvements in style of bolt work, combination and time locks. It is the heaviest work of the kind ever constructed in Canada, and will weigh about 30 tons. Inside the vault, when completed, there will be a clear space of 900 feet. The material and workmanship will be of the best, in keeping with the firm's reputation for solid, reliable work.

The Cardwell Election.

The election in Cardwell, caused by the acceptance of the portfolio of the Interior by the member, Mr. T. White, resulted in the re-election of the new Minister by a majority of about 450. Dr. Allison, the defeated candidate, was likewise a Conservative, and the election turned largely upon personal and local considerations.

Chief Engineer Charles J. Phillips, Victoria Fire Department, is in the field for re-election next October.

OUR MINERAL WEALTH.

A Magnificent Virgin Field for British Capital.

Mr. William Teague's Letter to "The Mining Journal."

The following letter from Mr. Wm. Teague, of Yale, appeared in The Mining Journal, London, Eng., of a recent date: "Knowing you are not very often troubled with communications from this remote quarter of Her Majesty's dominions, a circumstance which undoubtedly has precluded the outside world from becoming acquainted with the great mineral wealth lying dormant in this country, I feel it incumbent to convey before your readers the following particulars, which may prove interesting as emanating from one who has resided in this province for 27 years, dating from the gold excitement of 1858. Consequent on the gold discoveries made at that time British Columbia sprang into existence as a colony. The placer mines proving one of the richest alluvial deposits ever known, attracted large numbers of men to its shores to search for the precious metals, while some sought employment in the gold diggings at £2 per day. The question of gold and silver mining now comes prominently to the front as a result of the premonitory indications which appear; and the attention of the capitalists is being solicited to lay open properties presenting such unmistakable indices. No country in the world affording more favorable inducements, nor no country more liberal in granting mineral rights of the Crown. A nominal charge of £1 per acre by the government secures the title of the land without any further demand of taxes or royalty. Gold mining has been, and still continues to be a never failing attraction; silver mining is a more recent operation and its developments are yet in its infancy. During the excitement attendant on the gold discoveries the silver-bearing ledges were disregarded, but of late the argentiferous galena leads have been assayed with such gratifying results from the out-cropping for silver that it becomes increasingly apparent that silver mining will form one of the principal industries in the country.

With adequate machinery and additional small outlays gold mining would be far more remunerative and extensive. It is necessary to examine the deep channels and beds of streams in the immediate vicinity of gold-producing ground which would beyond all doubt prove remunerative. The auriferous deposits of British Columbia still hold forth every encouragement, they are undeveloped in many parts as evinced in prospecting. Among scientific men it is a well-known fact that the great silver-bearing belt extends its course northwards from New Mexico into Colorado, Wyoming, Nevada, Idaho, through British Columbia, trending its northerly course into Siberia. During my sojourn here I have examined samples of argentiferous ores which are indisputably connected with richer deposits at deeper sections, and the quartz of which is analogous to that found in Nevada, California, and other renowned silver-bearing districts. Lithologically the general characteristics of the rocks I have observed are almost identical with those forming the Cordilleras, on the western slopes of which are situated the Chilian silver mines, and which have given prodigious profits. The stratifications, too, are encouraging features, being associated with the silver-bearing rocks of the world, and which are as indispensably necessary for the production of metalliferous ores as water is for the life of man. The agricultural lands of the province are very limited; the external appearances of the surrounding mountainous country presenting that peculiar barrenness which Nature often stamps upon the surface beneath which her rich treasures of mineral are deposited. The country, however, possesses timber belts unexcelled by those of any other country, and that they will be a source of unlimited wealth, affording in due course much employment is a foregone conclusion. British Columbia alone contains an area of 341,305 square miles, and there is not a shaft sunk 200 feet deep on any of her mineral resources, except for coal at Nanaimo. The operations in connection with gold mining have invariably been very shallow, and what have been so far wrought upon in the shape of quartz mining have been injudiciously managed by inexperienced hands, swallowing up a large amount of capital producing the most abortive results. What has also militated against successful mining in the province has been the remoteness of the localities from railway communication, thereby entailing considerable costs in the transportation of necessary material of freights, a grievance now happily remedied. In all probability ere this letter reaches you the unfinished gap between the Selkirk range and the gold range of mountains will be "un fait accompli." With the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, converting British Columbia into one of the world's highways and forming an important era in its future industries, every facility will be afforded for communication with all parts of the world hitherto so far distant and difficult to reach, and thus placing the explorer in a position to examine vast tracts of unexplored ground, which eminent scientists, judging from the congenial geological features of the province generally, state must be highly mineralized. The excitement caused by the great discoveries of silver and gold in various adjacent parts of the United States has prevented proper attention being paid to the mineral resources of this province. Prospecting, too, in the past, owing to the circumstances I have mentioned, was a most arduous task, and mining operations have, therefore, languished. Mines can be worked very cheaply; they are inexhaustible; supplies of wood and water in abundance to meet all purposes. Few countries, then, offering better and safer inducements for profitable mining exist. Similar indications as present themselves here have given birth to many famed mines in Nevada and other parts of the world, and with such reassuring prospects the time has arrived when it behoves British capitalists to open up [illegible] of hidden wealth."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Germ Theory of Disease—A Rotten Bridge.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—I would not divert attention from the Point Ellice bridge controversy. Public highways should be criticised, especially when they span terrific depths. But while the subject of bridges is before the public, I would direct attention to a bridge which it is assumed is a solid arch over the deep waters of sickness, which ever beset and cross the path of life.

This bridge was rotten when first constructed. It is simply one of the many attempts to meet the ever-recurring cry of a distressed people for something which will give more than promise of safety. While only ordinary ills are present, the public, knowing that all cannot safely pass, think not that it is unsound. But the fierce march of the cholera exposes its condition as tens of thousands suddenly disappear to rise no more.

The germ theory is a practical failure. The medical art was just as inefficient, and no more so, centuries ago in diseases which test medical theories, as now. Spain is in despair; 40 to 50 per cent of those attacked die. The people chase away the worthless doctors, whose proffered aid is only a grim mockery.

Even if the germ theory were true as giving the cause of disease, it would still be worthless, as the remedies which kill the germs outside the body cannot do so in the blood, because their germicide remedies are themselves instantly changed to other compounds having no such qualities. Carbolic acid, for instance, and its congeners, being converted into etherenl sulphatis (Baumann). "No contagious or parasitee diseases have been cured by the germicides." (Nothnogel). Here there is a bridge, a veritable death trap, engulfing millions, but the millions only know that something somewhere is wrong. Usually, popular discovery blames the lack of skill of those who apply the theory, and continually flies to new doctors and new disappointments, never dreaming that a system which has made no progress in 2000 years is alone to blame.
